The Country Dance and Song Society is an association of people and groups (AVMAD is an affiliate group) with a common interest in folk and traditional music and dance. The board is made up of members who are leaders in their own dance communities. These members are recreational dancers, musician (traditional and historical dance music, ballads, and songs), singers, teachers, callers, dance historians, etc. The board supports and promotes traditional, historical, and international dances all over the country, as well as a number of camps and workshops that are put on by CDSS. They publish books and recordings, a newsletter, occasional monographs, and a directory of groups throughout the USA and Canada.
